PR KADECO: SUSTAINABLE LIVING WITH STYLE

Our resources are valuable and should be used responsibly. This also requires a change in thinking and the courage to change our ways. KADECO implements this claim in the LevelGreen cards within its collection, whose fabrics are made from recycled packaging.

The sustainably produced fabrics are available for roller blinds as well as for venetian and panel curtains. What is most exciting is their creation process: Originally produced from disposable packaging or bottles, they are shredded after use and then melted down into yarn. This process reduces energy consumption in the fabric manufacturing process by almost half. Water is hardly needed. This saves valuable resources and protects the environment.

Another plus point: The fabrics also meet numerous ecological requirements. Due to their biologically and technologically closed material cycle, they are certified according to the Cradle to Cradle Certified™ Products Program and meet the OEKO-TEX® Standard 100.

Beyond the sustainability aspect, the fabrics also inspire with their textile look. Finely woven structures, screens with pleasant transparent properties and attractive colour choices ranging from discreet white and beige tones to modern accent colours, make the LevelGreen card designs an appealing choice for any interior. Apart from that, some designs are classified as flame retardant (B1 according to DIN 4102-1 or M1).
